I am not able to fix the horizontal scroll bar of the page. It moves in a direction when you click anywhere on the page. I have followed the exact steps of the codepen but I am unable to fix it. Please do help. html, body{ height: 100%; width: 100%; } body { font: 1em/1.9 monospace; font-size: 1.1em; display: flex; justify-content: center; align-items: center; padding: 0; margin: 0; } #outer{ height: 100%; width: 100%; overflow-y: scroll; overflow-x: auto; } A: The content inside #outer has a width of 100%, so it creates a horizontal scrollbar. What you need to do is set up a min-width on #outer so that it will only fill up to a specific width. In this case, an idea is to set up the width to be as close as possible to the width of the canvas element, so that the scrollbar is only needed when the canvas is too small. It is then a trivial task to calculate that width to set up #outer's width. The width calculation is based on the a (r)ight and the s (top)ides, plus half the height. Then, you can take that value and set #outer's min-width accordingly: html, body{ height: 100%; width: 100%; } body { font: 1em
