Splenic abscess caused by Mycobacterium avium-intracellulare: case report and review of literature. Although Mycobacterium avium-intracellulare is a common opportunistic human pathogen, it is relatively uncommon as a cause of intracellular infection in humans. We report a case of splenic abscess caused by M. avium-intracellulare in an HIV-negative patient with no underlying systemic disease. A review of the literature reveals that splenic involvement in M. avium-intracellulare is frequently associated with other extra-pulmonary disease in HIV-negative patients.
