Go4it Launches 'Dragonframe' iOS Music Sequencer Oct 23, 2019 Description: Go4it Music 3.0 is an iOS app that will enable iOS users to build their very own music sequencer with a simple touch. The app has two parts: 1. Go4it music sequencer 2. Go4it music maker Go4it 3.0 features a user interface that is very similar to the official music apps: Apple Music or Spotify. With this app, you can create your own song from start to finish. You don't need to know anything about music technology. Just start with a kick, a snare, a guitar, a synth, a piano, a voice, and add it to your song. All of your tracks are saved in a cloud, which means you can access all your tracks from anywhere. You can also share your finished song with your friends or use the sync feature to keep your music in sync between all your devices. It is designed as a multitrack app for music production and mixing, but you can also use it as a standard music sequencer. Go4it Music 3.0 Features Create a song with your own style. Build a song step by step from drum beat, chords, melody, voice, synth, or other instruments.

The significance of an aneurysm of the left main coronary artery is controversial. In this case report, the authors present an instance in which an aneurysm of the left main coronary artery with a myocardial bridge, an intramural course, and a prominent right coronary artery ostium was discovered incidentally in a patient with atypical chest pain and a history of tobacco use. The patient also had mitral and aortic valve disease and a family history of premature coronary artery disease. After surgical treatment, the patient was asymptomatic, and had no evidence of recurrence. The authors recommend that patients with aneurysms of the left main coronary artery should be carefully evaluated for other concomitant disease. Furthermore, patients with aneurysms of the left main coronary artery can be managed medically with no need for surgical treatment, if the aneurysm is not complicated by compression or ischemia."We're now starting to actually see the impact of the federal government giving out the seed grants," says Gavin Potter, the manager of the Southwest Organic Initiative. "There's at least five different projects that are all getting started now because of these kinds of grants." Oregon State University's OSU Soils Project — funded by a $250,000 grant from USDA's National Institute of Food and Agriculture — has received enough seed money to cover the next three years of its work. It will establish a sustainable and profitable local seed system, building on a network of local farmers and gardeners who are willing to cooperate in providing seeds and other essentials. "We don't want to turn people into seed sellers," says OS 2d92ce491b
