gossip about Valkyries celtic gods She was making the village believe she was an avenging Valkyrie. But it can't be, or why would she wear a black dress? A: I suspect that when a place of battle is described in the lyrics as as "a place where the fight was", you might have a reference to a battle at the end of the day when the opponents have only each other to rely on. The song seems to be about a battle that was fought in the morning. The description seems to imply that the battle was won by the Valies, and that their job is over. She came in a black dress, and the Valkyrie was there (And the morning was cold and it was clear) And the description of a battle is of a battle that is going on, not a battle that is over. The event of the Valkyrie going to the battlefield is something that happens when the
