having trouble with a simple query for an array of objects. Here is my query: SELECT o.name, a.name, ia.name FROM group_object o, group_object_array a, group_object_array_items ia, group_object_id goid WHERE o.goid = goid AND o.name = 'group' AND a.goid = o.id AND o.id = a.object_id AND o.id = ia.object_id AND ia.object_id = goid ORDER BY a.name It will return a list of objects with names from all the 3 tables (o, a, ia) but I only want it to return one row per object, but the group_object_array_items table has multiple rows for the same object with different names, and I don't want that to be returned. I have tried using NOT IN but this does not seem to work, because it doesn't seem to filter anything out. I've also tried using OR statements, but this just returns 0 rows, as it returns all of the objects. Also, I would like to make it so that I can run a query on the group_object_array to see if an object with a particular name exists in that array. So if I ran a query like this:
SELECT * FROM group_object_array WHERE name = 'Group' I would like to be able to find out if that name exists in that array. Is this possible? Thanks for any help that you can give me, this has been driving me crazy for the past couple days. I do realize there is probably a more elegant solution to this that I'm not seeing, but I'm very new to MySQL. Am I on the right track? EDIT: I will gladly take a hint as to what I can do with my current query. I tried putting a query in a loop that checked to see if that name was already in the array, but that would just bring back an array of all of the name I had
