Diese Seite übersetzen Grand Theft Auto IV GTA IV incorporates a variety of first-person and third-person shooting mechanics in a massive open world that can be freely explored and controlled at any time by the player. The game features free-roaming, a car system, and a basic storyline. Unlike previous games in the franchise, GTA IV is primarily story driven, though many non-player characters are able to interact with the player character in various ways throughout the game, and vice versa. This has led to an increase in the game's meta-narrative and player freedom compared to its predecessors. Various activities can be achieved in any order, and the events occur on a large and open map. Players can customize their character's appearance by purchasing optional equipment that they can obtain during gameplay. The game's premise revolves around Niko Bellic, a former member of the Serbians living in the fictional Liberty City. Niko is introduced to the player during a taxi ride with his cousin Roman Bellic, the mayor of their town. After the player is introduced to Niko, the player proceeds to a series of events, as the player and Niko go through the story together. The player controls Niko throughout the entire game, except for several sequences where the player plays as a wanted criminal.Q: Rails - paperclip - mongoid and posts - cannot find image I have a posts model which is referenced to other model users. This works fine when i remove mongoid and try to create a post which uses a user image which is already uploaded to the system. But the problem comes when i try to upload a user image for a post. What happens is i get the following error: undefined method `image_url' for nil:NilClass. I'm using paperclip with mongoid. posts.rb class Post include Mongoid::Document include Mongoid::Paperclip::UploadedFile include Mongoid::Timestamps has_and_belongs_to_many :users, :class_name => "User", :foreign_key => "created_by" has_and_belongs 570a42141b
