The list is created in the component "featured", it is then passed to the component "main" which is where the data is displayed. Currently the "main" component is created in a directive. Now I want to add a filter based on the option selected from a dropdown list. The dropdown is part of "main" component and works fine, the only thing is, it is initially not set to the filter selected. So I am doing it in the callback function of the "main" component, but this.filters is undefined, so I cannot use this.filters.filter(f => f.type === "tag").
