1. Automatic synchronization with atomic clock. 2. Convenient to access and modify right in the Startbar. 3. Free background in any remote-printer-enabled application. 4. Automatic analysis of up to 3 days of log files and correction of time conflicts. 5. Clocks in all world time zones synchronized. Please note that the synchronization is far from perfect, and does not work on all PCs. 1. Automatic synchronization with atomic clock. The application waits for an Internet connection, then adjusts your clock on a second and a half interval, without your interaction. The program keeps a log file about all activities that you can limit to size or age. You will never have the wrong time again! The correction process is automated, so you do not have to do anything else but wait until the clock is set right again. The program includes a pager icon to inform you when there are time conflicts, also at the System Tray. Each time conflict is printed by the program, one tick is added to an ever-growing counter. This allows you to check the log at any time and decide whether you like the time synchronized or not. The program also has an option, to synchronize clocks on the PC of your friends, this can be activated, at the Spyware Control dialog from the Utilities menu. 2. Convenient to access and modify right in the Startbar. The dialog to log errors is always in the startbar, and can be activated as shortcut from the menu (Menu -> Utilities -> Log Problems) or by the shortcut in the Startbar (Synchronize -> Log Problems). 3. Free background in any remote-printer-enabled application. If remote-printer is enabled, the application shows a small icon in the System Tray to inform you about the time conflict that was logged and reset automatically. The program always shows an icon in the System Tray, so it will never make you miss a time conflict. 4. Automatic analysis of up to 3 days of log files and correction of time conflicts. The application keeps a history of all time conflicts that it reports. When you click the Log Problems button, the program displays all conflicts that occurred in the last week and allows you to analyze them. If there is a time conflict, you can decide for yourself whether you like the time conflict or not and whether you wish to activate an automatic correction. To activate this automatic 6a5afdad4c

12-Sync is a program to synchronize the time of your PC automatically with an atomic clock. It can be used at any time, whenever a network is available. The clock is synchronized automatically and silently, without your knowledge - so you can work and enjoy your computer without being disturbed. Its clock is compared every second to an atomic clock of the NIST via Internet (NIST). A summary of all operations, a print-screen of the current value, and a log file will be available at any time. Also, there is a setting to exclude the restart of other tasks in case of a connection failure and thus freeze your computer. System Requirements: Windows XP or higher Vista or higher It will be unavailable in the next update because I am thinking of improving the look (date / time) a little bit. If it works for you, please leave a comment! This app is being developed because I have a problem with the computers in my... Synchronize your PC time with an atomic clock via the Internet.
