season The 1996–97 season was the first full season in the Scottish First Division and the first since being rebranded from the 'Irn-Bru First Division. Kilmarnock's end of season run to 4th place in the Scottish league was the club's highest placing since 1991. In the Challenge Cup, Kilmarnock reached the semi-finals. Review Kilmarnock finished in a highly commendable 4th place in the Scottish First Division, accumulating 78 points, bettering previous season's finishes of 7th and 7th. This was the first time a Kilmarnock side had placed higher than 6th in the competition. Indeed, with ten more points, Kilmarnock would have finished 2nd. Kilmarnock's domestic form was mixed, winning two, drawing eight and losing ten of their matches.

Their first win of the season was the second round League Cup game at home to Abercorn. Kilmarnock also progressed to the second round of the Challenge Cup. The first match was drawn at Hampden Park against the previous season's beaten finalists, Dundee, and the match was eventually drawn at 2-2. Despite an extra-time goal in the match the replay had to be played a week later at Rugby Park, and Kilmarnock again found themselves on the losing side, this time losing 2-1 after extra-time. Kilmarnock entered the Scottish Cup in
