drive maintenance, data analysis, sector checker, undelete tool. It's a miracle to find a perfectly healthy smartphone in the least expected places. And those are the spots where all your data is kept. So, what happens when you accidentally drop your smartphone in the sink? Well, that's not an accident, folks – your data has been affected! However, with a few minor tweaks, you can easily recover those critical files! 1. Battery If you dropped your smartphone in the sink, chances are there won't be any battery in the device, which will prohibit any interaction. That's why you should replace your battery immediately. If the battery is not charged enough, the battery reacts by making the phone cold to touch – it's the equivalent of a freezer! To avoid this, immediately plug your smartphone to the charger and let it charge for a couple of hours. This might not be enough if your battery is severely damaged and won't charge anymore. In such a case, you need to call your phone manufacturer and ask for a replacement. However, if you're sure you can replace the battery, better start the recovery process right away. 2. Water Similar to the battery issue, water can also penetrate your smartphone and flood it with water. To find out, just try to see if the water level rises inside your device. Also, check your smartphone for water stains or moisture spots and replace any damaged parts as soon as possible. 3. Magnetic Suspects Gravity and magnetic force can take the smartphone at different distances. So, your smartphone should be out of your reach when you notice any drops on the table. Also, if your smartphone has a built-in magnet, remember that the magnetic force can prevent your phone from opening up for a while. 4. Spiked Beverage Spiked beverages are easy to find – they are everywhere! The same thing applies to your smartphone; however, you should be extra vigilant when your smartphone is exposed to any kind of beverage. If the water or beverage is too hot, it will damage the delicate components of the smartphone. To make sure that your smartphone is safe from any kind of spiked beverage, you can install a water-proofing case for your device. However, if you're not satisfied with a particular case, you can always build your own water-proof case. 5. Collision Along with water and spiked beverages, collisions
