Interferon alpha (IFN α) has emerged as an important therapeutic for many viral and some non-viral diseases. The virus control by IFN α therapy is regarded as a vital. The long-term application of IFN α in therapy is restricted by its side effects and the lack of dose and target specificity of this cytokine. Therefore, it is necessary to improve the safety and efficacy of IFN α therapy. The use of IFN α -inducible genes as "key switches" for the design of IFN α -inducible gene therapy is being evaluated for gene therapy for the treatment of cancer and infectious diseases. We aim to develop a novel strategy that would enhance the specificity and efficiency of RNAi using IFN α and transfection of siRNA with cationic liposomes (lipofectamine) in an attempt to modify IFN α -induced gene expression. We identified several interferon alpha-inducible genes, including OAS1, IDO, and SOCS1, in human colorectal cancer cell lines using the approach of screening human genome expression profiles. The cationic liposome complexed siRNA was used to transfect these genes in HT29 cell. Interestingly, we found that the expression of OAS1 and SOCS1 was almost induced by the IFN α , whereas IDO had almost no change when siRNA was transfected into IFN α treated HT29 cells. The expression of OAS1 and SOCS1 was also examined in other cell lines. Interestingly, the expression of OAS1 and SOCS1 was not induced by IFN α in other cell lines, except for HT29.Q: Read JSON from a URL I'm working on an app that uses a webview and loads some JSON data from a url.
