Nos. 4,069,526; 4,101,328; 4,128,946; 4,208,747; 4,401,429; and 4,416,194, the prior art is replete with myriad and diverse anti-friction mechanisms for use with bicycles. While all of the aforementioned prior art constructions are more than adequate for the basic purpose and function for which they have been specifically designed, these patented devices have generally been complex, expensive, and are not conveniently transportable. As a consequence of the foregoing situation, there has existed a longstanding need for a new and improved manner of adjusting a bicycle-type wheelie bar in an effective, effective manner, and the provision of such a construction is a stated objective of the present invention.

“For your own good...”: voices and visions in early modern print medicine

This seminar will explore the complex narrative of print medicine in a tradition that was increasingly binding the interests and desires of the wealthy and powerful in early modern Europe. From talk, book and pamphlet catalogues to medical teaching, print culture offered new kinds of visions, voices and ways of seeing – of self, of self-making, of distancing. Could print and visual culture offer new forms of knowledge and experience of early modern bodies and sickness?

Speaker’s bio: Beverley Southwell is Senior Lecturer in the History of Medicine, University of Bristol, and co-editor of the Journal of British Studies. Her research focuses on early modern print culture, the history of smallpox and plague, and the study of women's and gender's

When it comes to.Google+ Followers Saturday, November 24, 2015 New Year Goals 2015 Hey hey!It's almost the end of November, and that means I'm entering a new year.The year I've chosen is quite special for me because it's the year I got married. I've been wanting to write a blog post about this but ended up being too hectic to think of time. But enough of that! I'm going to be starting a new year with new goals and resolutions to make my life better! So yeah, my goals are as follows: * Working more on my blog and writing. * Spending more time with friends and family. * Taking up hobbies. * Dream big and live like you're alive. * Be more positive and optimistic. I'm hoping my new year will be better than my last. I'd love to leave with a new and better me! Now that we're well into the second month of the 2016 elections, new data is being released from YouGov Omnibus. YouGov Omnibus is a series of surveys that tracks public opinion from presidential campaigns across the United States. It is the only data available that tracks the changing sentiment of the electorate for every Democratic and Republican campaign, not just one. The details of the polls are released monthly and are often public by May or June. The last poll in May was 2014. It is the best and most comprehensive data of presidential poll results ever available. And in today's update, we get some more good news for Hillary Clinton. First, let's look at the polling data from the last three months of last year, when she ran for president against Bernie Sanders. YouGov Omnibus, November 2015 through May 2016: YouGov Omnibus, July 2016 through May 2016: Here are the figures from the most recent polls: Hillary Clinton net change in support
