Sen. Claire McCaskill, D-Mo., on Monday issued a subpoena for President Donald Trump's tax records for his businesses, becoming the third Democrat to formally request that Trump release his tax returns to the public. "It's ironic and it's a bit shameful that a president who ran on a protectionist agenda would leave our economy more open to other countries and at the same time open to secret tax schemes that would hide them from the public eye," McCaskill said in a statement. "It's past time that we see his tax returns." Advertisement: McCaskill's statement came just a day after Reps. Bill Pascrell, Jr. and Lloyd Smucker, both of New Jersey, filed their own resolution with the House
