Blog: Video game lovers back motion on Girl Power Last year, all eyes were on Next Games' Life is Strange, as fans on gaming websites like IGN and Kotaku praised the narrative and the game's strong female leads. Courtesy of Hearst's LIFE IS STRANGE gamer-page, Life is Strange game enthusiasts. Now, for game fans, Halyalkar's voice is back in their ears. In 2012, Halyalkar was suspended in January for making a comment that was deemed offensive to an Indian, according to a bill signed by Gov. Chris Christie on Wednesday that effectively squelches a state employee's right to free speech. However, the incident received little media attention and Halyalkar continued to draw a paycheck. Hours after her suspension was announced, Halyalkar tweeted a link to Christie's signing of the bill, with the message, "The sound of silence is loud enough for you, Gov." Throughout the year, Halyalkar declined to comment about her suspension. This time, in a story written by The Record's Bryan Zon, Halyalkar told a reporter from ABC 6 Wickepedia that the law represents a "backward" and "foolish" attack on free speech. "I think about the freedom of speech sometimes when people try to push the limits of it," Halyalkar told Zon. "I think when they realize the lengths someone will go to use their rights to try to harm another person. It's scary. It's scary that it's gone that far." Halyalkar also told Zon that she would continue to speak her mind on issues important to her. In another tweet posted today, Halyalkar posted, "God didn't give me a brain to think with ... so why should the government?" Courtesy of Next Games, Life is Strange game enthusiasts. Backlash against the law Halyalkar's comment was "otherwise than normal workplace conduct" because it was aimed directly at a specific individual, according to the bill. In addition to targeting Halyalkar, the bill also applied to school teachers who "made personal assaults of a similar nature against students,♦"

Threaded View Drinking a juice bar smoothie has never felt so dirty. For the past few years I have been trying to clean up my diet. This morning however I tried a smoothie from my local juice bar. The one that I have been taking lately has added 15 grams of vegetables, 30 grams of fruit, 10 grams of protein and 10 grams of fiber, therefore making it 250 calories. I feel like it is not a little bigger than a typical cereal bar so I don't know why it is relatively low in calories. Served in a flipkart mug I was all set to enjoy this smoothie and by the time I took it out it was very hard to drink it with a straw. It seemed disgusting and it tasted as if some pieces of feces had been mixed in. To make a long story short I finished it in about 40 seconds and now am having an unusual feeling of guilt. This invention relates to an easily disposable seat cover for use in covering a seat of a toilet of a public rest room or the like in order to prevent dirt or germs from being left on the seat. There are many public rest rooms where seat covers are provided in order to prevent dirt or germs from being left on the seats. However, these covers cannot be easily discarded because they are bulky. They must be removed from the toilet and then carried outside. However, the covers cannot be carried back into the public rest room, because they must be immediately removed from the toilet when it is desired to use it. At The Indiana State Department of Health we have urged businesses to slow the flow of walk-ins in order to help prevent the spread of the COVID-19 virus. This also includes cancelling public health events that take place indoors. In an effort to reduce the number of health care seekers visiting these offices, this year's flu season began January 15 and runs through April 30. At this time, we are unable to cancel or reschedule these in-person events. If you're ill with flu-like symptoms, or if you have been exposed to COVID-19, please call your doctor before coming to the Indiana State Department of Health.
