The design of both modes .Q: Google App Engine Template renderer doesn't make a new request when uploading a file via ajax I'm trying to upload a file via ajax to Google App Engine. The problem is that the template renderer doesn't send a new request to the server. For instance, this is the original request that I sent with ajax: xhr

= new XMLHttpRequest(); xhr.open("POST",
"/my_file_upload_url/", true); xhr.setRequestHeader('Content-type', 'application/x-www-form-urlencoded');
```

xhr.send("file=@Model.file.absolute_path&text=@Model.text");
But what I get is an xhr.send("file=@Model.file.absolute_path");
Why is there no new request to the server? I have tried to debug and the request didn't even reach the template renderer, so I do have a clue on which library/framework I'm using, but any hints would be much appreciated. Thanks! A: You need to construct a

JSON object with the parameters, and then send it:
xhr.send({file:Model.file.absolute_path,text:Model.text});
XMLHttpRequest sends form parameters, but JSON is more human-readable. You should use JSON anyway because you're using Ajax.

Monday, September 17, 2013 Sunday, September 16, 2013 For years, I have wanted to start a blog. I know I'm not the only person that feels like this - I hope that in addition to sharing my own experiences, I can inspire someone else. It's been fun putting this together, if nothing else. I am still a working mom with two kids, so you'll also get to hear about how life is from my perspective:) In addition to being a working mom, I have been lucky to travel with my husband every year for the past five years. We've been to Europe, Mexico, some of the Caribbean, and some local events. We always say goodbye to our friends and family the same way we got together - with a vacation. We have so many wonderful friends and I love that we are able to be with them as we are making new memories together.
