There is a new platform that allows you to easily deposit and withdraw crypto in Mexico. Freeswap is giving every exchange user the option to deposit and withdraw dollars in over 60 different cryptocurrencies. I recently reviewed Freeswap on FitShops with my friend, and I was impressed with what I saw. Freeswap works like any other centralized platform, but it has one specific feature that appeals to me: built-in social proof. Freeswap is giving everyone with a Coinbase account a reputation score based on their platform activity, and the option to share it with friends and family. While we haven't had any internet connection issues, this is a sign of the value of the platform and the transparency that is synonymous with the blockchain world. Also, in the real world, having a number associated with you such as a score or reputation score (or tax ID, or phone number for that matter) is often considered a tangible asset by those who aren't crypto savvy. So Freeswap is a pretty big deal to me, and an excellent way to demonstrate the value of a trustless, decentralized system. But I'm also very interested in how this works in the real world. I have often been asked whether Freeswap is a real exchange. To this point, no one has ever put their money into Freeswap to deposit or withdraw any cryptocurrency. The only interaction we've had in this first phase of the Freeswap project is to send small transactions to demonstrate the platform's value. As of this date, there is only one way to deposit or withdraw in Freeswap: email. So don't worry, it's still an exchange (because people have money in it). However, there will be more ways to interact with Freeswap in the future. Within the next few weeks, the Freeswap team is planning to launch a mobile app, allowing people to deposit and withdraw in Freeswap using their phone, and the ability to send funds directly from a mobile wallet. This app will be free for everyone. The team is also working on their own built-in cryptocurrency wallet, so they will be able to also exchange cryptocurrencies using their own wallet. For this reason, it's likely that the Freeswap team is the first to market with this exact feature. Finally,

Q: Bidirectional associations in Zope 2 How can I model bidirectional associations in Zope 2? For example, how do I model this in the schema part? Product(z_name, z_price) *on_sale* Location(z_city, z_state, z_country) I tried just modeling Location as a tree root, but in that case it raises an exception: UnboundConstraintViolation: ('Location','state') A: The best way to model bidirectional associations with Zope 2 is to use subclasses of the same class. Examples: Product Relation(Product) Product Location(Product) These assertions are then implemented as behaviour like in this document: This way you don't need to put anything in the Mapper of the Role, because the Mapper is then the Role itself, even if you don't realize this anymore. Medical Management of Extreme Obesity. To describe the medical management of obese patients and the evaluation of the patient before the initiation of bariatric surgery. MEDLINE (1900-2017), CINAHL (1937-2017), EMBASE (1988-2017), Cochrane databases (2012-2017), and Web of Science (1900-2017). We also included a recent single-center retrospective chart review of patients seen in the outpatient bariatric surgery program. Search terms included bariatric surgery, bariatric medicine, bariatric treatment, obesity, and extreme obesity. We also reviewed the most recent literature, but there is not a significant amount of literature that evaluates the medical management of extreme obesity. In this review, we discuss the normal function of the bariatric surgery patient, the influence of extreme obesity on the body, nutrition, general medical evaluation, preoperative care, and postoperative care for bariatric surgery. In late December 2018, Starbucks sent out an e-mail to former customers of its mobile app, saying that it would be terminating it in the United States, Canada, and the United Kingdom, effective January 2, 2019. Customers would still be able to use the app in other markets. The app provided customers with a venue to order coffee from their phones,
