Homeschooling students has proven to be an effective way to teach and educate children. Since parents feel the need to be hands-on with children most homeschooling parents frequently utilize extra-curricular activities to enhance their children's education. Such activities can be as simple as taking their children to the park, to as complicated as enrolling them in university courses. Depending on the extent of education that the parents would like their children to receive, homeschooling could be a strict educational path or a less stringent approach. These parents can choose to strictly teach their children a curriculum as they do not allow for any elective options. In addition to academic subjects, homeschooling parents can teach their children many other important skills such as arithmetic, technology, history, and physical education. Homeschooling is also an effective option when parents find it difficult to find a quality education option for their children. Homeschooling does not have any stringent or rigorous requirements as long as the parents have a working knowledge of the curriculum, which can be acquired on the internet. Most homeschooling parents use online services such as MyPEI or CyberSchools to match their child's interests and provide them with the means to learn in a comfortable environment. With homeschooling parents having the freedom to teach their children in their home, they can change course based on the level of engagement their children have. The greatest advantage of homeschooling is the development of a beneficial lifestyle, where children can learn from a variety of different subjects. Homeschooling is simply learning at a different pace, whether at a public or private school.Q: Конвертировать форматированные текстовые файлы в формат.csv чтобы они не менялись при вставке Пишу метод для обновления бд public void upLoadDatabase() { try { InputStream inputStream = this.getAssets().open("food

Prescription drug plans are offered at over half of HMOs, 47 percent of preferred provider organizations (PPOs), and 41 percent of point of service (POS) plans. Although plans offering prescription drug coverage are increasing in number, it is unknown which insurance companies are currently offering prescription drug coverage plans. The last time the National Center for Health Statistics (NCHS) conducted the National Health Expenditure Survey (NHES) was for 1979-80. Since 1980, the only other surveys of national health expenditure were the American National Health Interview Survey (ANHS) and the National Medical Expenditure Survey (NMES) that were discontinued in the early 1990s. To provide up to date estimates of prescription drug expenditures and prescription drug plans, the NCHS has supplemented the NHES by conducting a mail survey of prescription drug expenditures in a sample of households. This survey is designed to provide current estimates of national expenditures for prescription drugs in 1987 and 1987-88. The sample was selected by sampling registration files on over 22 million addresses to develop a sample of 34,536 households. Each selected household was sent an invitation to complete a mail survey of prescription drug use and health insurance coverage in 1987 and 1988. The survey covered 11.5 million adults (18 years of age or older) and included 5,571 phone interviews. Drug use and insurance coverage was reported by the head of household. Expenditures were reported on a per member per month (PMPM) basis and were adjusted to 1987 constant dollars using the Consumer Price Index (CPI). Two-thirds of the sample (67 percent) had other health insurance coverage; 15 percent had employer-based coverage, and 12 percent were uninsured. The major findings of the 1987-88 NHES included: (1) (Drugs) expenditures increased from $49.1 billion in 1979-80 to $75.1 billion in 1987-88. Of the increase in expenditures, approximately $4.5 billion was prescription drug expenditures. This amounted to 12.5 percent of total drug expenditures, but it represented a 42.9 percent increase in prescription drug expenditures compared to the previous survey. The average prescription drug expenditure per capita increased from $2,383 in 1979-80 to $3,403 in 1987-88. (2) More than two-thirds of total prescription drug expenditures were for prescription drugs for chronic diseases. (3) Approximately 50 percent of beneficiaries had one form of private health insurance coverage, and only 2 percent of beneficiaries had no form of
