The Tint Brush can be used to create colored versions of images. The layers palette is a good place to experiment with adding different colors to your images. The Gradient Tool is used to blend colors in an image. The Gradient Tool can be used on its own, with the same color, or blended with the Brush or Pen tools. The Pen Tool is a great tool for creative or expressive images. There are several different settings and styles, such as the Polygonal, Bezier, or Freehand. The Paper Texture and Pattern tools are used to create a wide variety of paper effects, ranging from embossed to drawn with a pen. The Feather Tool is used to create soft, blurred edges. The Spot Healing Brush is used to repair corrupt, damaged, or blurry images. The Spot and Spot Healing Brush tools work in the same way as any other tool, except they're better at repairing damaged areas. The Move Tool can be used for simple editing, such as rotating an image. The Tool Palette lets you use several different tools at once. The Crop Tool is used to crop your images to a more specific size. The Selection Tool can be used to select portions of your images for editing. The Move Tool is used for the same purpose. The Levels, Curves, Shadow and Highlights are tools that are used for adjusting the brightness and contrast in images. The Pencil Tool is similar to the Pen Tool, except the Shapes and Text tools are used with it. Deep in the heart of California's Central Valley lies the small town of Delano, birthplace of the water wars, center of California's early fruit farming. Maybe not as well known as the "Harvests of the World" that were picked here in the 19th century, the Central Valley has many more interesting chapters to tell. Although most of them are related to agriculture, some don't make the usual list of places to see. Here are 10 interesting places to visit in California's Central Valley. 1. Yountville Yountville, population 871, lies in Napa Valley, 15 miles south of the town of San Francisco. In the 19th century, the town had a population of 15,000 - and one dude ranch with 70 cows. After the "Harvests of the World" were harvested, Yountville became the "Sprawling Little
