The origin of her inspiration—many of her works began as visions in recurrent dreams—explains her ethereal aesthetic. She has developed a balance between organizing a shoot in a professional manner with a unique touch that gives it that "something" that grabs the viewer's attention. She has both training from the commercial world and a network in the fine art scene. Lara has years of modeling experience and understands how to make customers feel at ease during a portrait session. She naturally captures what makes each individual appealing and engaging by recognizing the beauty in everyone. Although organization and accuracy are crucial, the fact that she makes each shoot enjoyable is the secret to her success. Her amiable studio dog, Ziva, occasionally helps her when she is working.
